DECISION AND ORDER ON TIMELINESS¹

I. Introduction

C C filed an application for Medicaid benefits on July 31, 2014. That application was denied on September 30, 2014. Mr. C did not file a hearing request to challenge the denial until November 6, 2014. The Division of Public Assistance (Division) did not refer the matter to the Office of Administrative Hearing for hearing. Mr. C requested a hearing to challenge the non-referral of the underlying denial of his July 31, 2014 application.

A hearing was held on May 28, 2015 to address the limited issue of whether the November 6, 2014 hearing request was timely. Elizabeth Russo with the Office of Public Advocacy represented Mr. C. Alex Hildebrand, AAG, represented the Division.

A review of the facts of this case show that Mr. C's hearing request was untimely. This case is therefore dismissed under the authority of 7 AAC 49.100(5).

II. Facts

The following facts were established by a preponderance of the evidence.

Mr. C is a ward of the Office of Public Advocacy. He filed an application for Medicaid benefits on July 31, 2014. Annette Dooley is an eligibility technician who is employed by the Division. On September 29, 2014, she prepared a notice informing Mr. C that his July 31, 2014 Medicaid application was denied.² That notice was dated September 30, 2014, and was mailed to Ms. G, Mr. C's public guardian, at the Office of Public Advocacy, located at 900 W 5th Ave., Suite 525, Anchorage, Alaska 99501.³ The Division uses a standard automatic process where

At the May 28, 2015 hearing, the parties were advised that this Order would be issued as a proposed decision, subject to the right to file proposals for action under AS 44.64.060(e). However, a review of the applicable Fair Hearing regulation, 7 AAC 49.030(a), indicates that issues regarding whether the time limit for requesting a hearing should be relaxed are reserved to the administrative law judge to decide, and are not subject to the proposed decision process. This Decision and Order is therefore issued without providing the parties with an opportunity to file a proposal for action.

notices are printed and mailed out on the same day as the date printed on the notice.⁴ The denial notice was therefore mailed on September 30, 2014.

Mr. C's public guardian, N G, prepared a new Medicaid application for Mr. C. She signed it October 1, 2014. It was filed with the Division on October 2, 2014. She testified that she did not know that the July 31, 2014 application was denied when she prepared the October 2014 application. She explained that she had been on vacation and returned to the office on October 1, 2014. She became nervous due to the lack of communication about Mr. C's July 31, 2014 application, did not receive the denial notice, and prepared the October 2014 application out of an excess of caution.

Tom Fernette is a legal benefits specialist with the Office of Public Advocacy. He reviewed Mr. C's file on November 4, 2014. He did not see a written notice denying Mr. C's July application. He contacted the Division, was informed of the denial, and requested a copy of the denial notice. Upon receipt of the notice, he requested a hearing. The Division received the hearing request on November 6, 2014. The Division denied Mr. C a hearing on the basis that his hearing request was untimely. 8

Both Ms. Dooley and L O, another Division employee, reviewed Mr. C's file with the Division and the Division's returned mail. They did not find any returned notices for Mr. C.⁹

III. Discussion

An applicant for Medicaid benefits is required to request a hearing within 30 days of the date notice is sent advising him or her that those benefits have been denied. ¹⁰ It is undisputed that Mr. C's hearing request is dated November 4, 2014, and was received by the Division on November 6, 2014; both dates are more than 30 days after the date of the September 30, 2014 denial notice.

There is a common-law doctrine known as the "mailbox rule," which "raises a presumption that the postal service 'delivered the document to the addressee in the usual time[,]' if the document was properly mailed, but the presumption can be rebutted by evidence that the document was not received by the deadline.¹¹ Courts have also stated that the fact that the United States Postal Service fails to return a piece of first class mail to the sender creates a rebuttable presumption that the mail was received by the addressee.¹² The evidence demonstrates that it is more likely than not true that the Division mailed the denial notice to Mr. C's guardian on September 30, 2014 and that the Division's denial notice was not returned by the Postal Service to it. These facts create a rebuttable presumption that Mr. C's guardian was sent the denial notice of September 30 and received it.

Mr. C, however, fails to rebut the presumption that he received the denial notice. Although the guardian testified that she did not receive the denial notice, the fact that she prepared and signed a new application on October 1, 2014, and had it filed with the Division on October 2, 2014 belies her testimony. If she was concerned about the lack of communication, she could have simply contacted the Division, or had one of her colleagues contact the Division and inquire about the status of the July application. 13 If she had been verbally informed about the denial, and chose to file a new application while waiting on the formal notice of the denial, that would have been a credible scenario. However, her explanation that she filed the new application due to nervousness over the lack of communication is simply not credible. Because there is a rebuttable presumption that Mr. C was sent and received the denial notice, which was not rebutted by him, he had until 30 days after September 30, 2014 to file his hearing request: "a request for a hearing ... must be made to the department in writing by a recipient, or by a legal representative acting on the recipient's behalf, not later than 30 days after the date of the notice required under 7 AAC 49.060."14 Mr. C's hearing request was therefore due on October 30, 2014. However, his hearing request was dated November 4, 2014, and was received by the Division on November 6, 2014. 15 Accordingly, it was late and this action is time-barred.

Mr. Fernette's testimony that he contacted the Division on November 4, 2014 to inquire about the status of the July 2014 application demonstrates that a phone call to the Division was possible, and would have yielded a copy of the denial notice.
