N. G. JR.)

OAH No. 22-0333-CSS

DECISION AND ORDER UPON CONSENT OF THE PARTIES

N. G. appealed a Decision on Request for Modification Review issued on April 6, 2022, by the Child Support Services Division (Division). The Division denied his request to modify his support obligation for U. and E., the children he shares with F. D., which was set at $582 based on shared custody calculation. He objected due to the many months he was unemployed due to medical issues, as well as the lower hourly wage he is earning in his new job than what he was paid in the position he held for years prior. A telephonic hearing was held on May 5, then reconvened on May 17, 2022. Both times Mr. G. and Ms. D. appeared by telephone and represented themselves. The Division was represented by Child Support Specialist Kimberly Sledgister.

Mr. G. and Ms. D. both submitted wage and tax information regarding their current positions and agreed that they maintain shared custody of their children. Based on the updated income information from the parties, Ms. Sledgister recalculated the support obligation as apportioned to both parties, which indicated that Mr. G.'s support obligation should end on March 1, 2022.¹ Going forward, parties reached a mutually acceptable agreement that no support was owed on this case through September 30, 2022. During this period, although not enforceable through this order, Mr. G. informally committed to paying off arrears on this case accrued during his period of unemployment. Beginning October 1, 2022, onward, either party may apply for an administrative support order through the Division.

The administrative law judge has reviewed the parties' consent agreement and concurs that it is appropriate under Civil Rule 90.3. Thus, the parties' agreement is adopted.

THEREFORE IT IS ORDERED

1. Mr. G.'s support obligation for two children in the amount of $582 based on a shared custody calculation ends effective March 1, 2022.

2. Zero child support obligation is owed on this case from March 1, 2022 through October 1, 2022.
3. All other terms of the Modified Administrative Child Support and Medical Support Order dated July 6, 2021 remain in full force and effect.

Dated: May 17, 2022
