

Submitted By	Comment
9/23/2016 12:19 Jennifer Stricklan	A more reasonable and responsible solution to our budget crisis would be to think of a long range solution. The pfd snatched out of the pockets of needy families is a temporary solution. By instituting a 3% statewide sales tax is a better longterm solution as this would allow Alaska to reap the benefits from tourism and other industries that seasonally inject money into the Alaska economy. Secondly by cutting the monetary and non-monetary benefits received by legislation would also contribute to budget cuts. We have talked about education budget cuts and other state programs but not once hasaid the legislative budget been on the chopping block. By moving the capital to Anchorage the state would save millions alone in transportation and lodging Please leave my PFD alone. It was not designed to feed the state budget. It was designed to benefit the people of Alaska.