- Provide answers to questions received

Question 1.

Is there a different rate for a certain accumulation of snow? Or perhaps a big storm where it dumps a lot of snow at one time? My concern is that some of these roads get huge snow drifts and the difference between plowing 6 inches and 12 inches requires a different workload.

Answer 1.

There is no different rate for a certain accumulation of snow. We would have the contractor come out more than once if required.

Question 2.

I did see the contractor may be called out several times for one event is that how it's managed?

Answer 1.

Yes, the department would have the contractor come out more than once.
