Body of Notice:

PUBLIC NOTICE
ALASKA DEPARTMENT OF ENVIRONMENTAL CONSERVATION
Request for Water Quality Information

The Alaska Department of Environmental Conservation (ADEC) requests water quality information to enhance and update our existing water quality information and complete its Year 2000 statewide water quality assessment.

This information is important to Alaska for describing the nature, status and health of Alaska's waters, and assisting Alaska in identifying water quality restoration and protection needs. ADEC also needs this information to develop water quality assessment reports, which are provided to the Environmental Protection Agency as described under Section 305(b) of the Clean Water Act.

Water Quality Assessment Update

The water quality assessment reports on how Alaska's waters support its uses. Water uses include, but are not limited to, drinking, recreation, and growth and propagation of aquatic life. Sources of information that help develop the assessment include monitoring data (e.g., water testing) and evaluated information provided by water resource managers, fish and wildlife biologists, aquatic biologists, and others.

How you can help

ADEC has limited information on Alaska's vast water resources and is interested in obtaining information that may be recently available. Information can include monitoring data, reports, photographs, and observations. ADEC asks that persons forwarding information fill out a "water quality assessment form" which is available through the contact address below or a local ADEC office.

ADEC will accept water quality information on surface and/or groundwater water quality until close of business on January 29, 2000.

On April 1, 2000 ADEC will submit an electronic water quality assessment update to EPA.

To submit water quality information, or for more information, contact:
